Sustainable Aviation Fuels
time for take-off

Charilaos Xiros

Charilaos Xiros is a senior researcher and research coordinator in the Biotech group in RISE, specializing in industrial biotechnology, biorefineries, renewable fuels and the conversion of biological resources into sustainable products.

He holds a PhD in Industrial biotechnology from the National Technical University of Athens. Currently he is the coordinator of two HE projects and beyond renewable fuels, his research on biorefineries, the sustainable valorisation of industrial side streams and alternative proteins is committed to translate biotechnology into scalable solutions for the circular bioeconomy and industrial decarbonisation.