Sustainable Aviation Fuels
time for take-off

Judit Sandquist

Judit Sandquist is an experienced Research Scientist at SINTEF Energy Research specializing in sustainable aviation fuels, biofuel process development, and thermochemical conversion. Her research focuses on thermochemical conversion pathways relevant to SAF production, including hydrothermal liquefaction, biomass gasification, and pyrolysis. She has contributed to aviation biofuel research, international bioenergy collaboration, as well as national and European research programmes.